

Dear Sir,

My family and I have really benefited from Indiana's law that allows them to restrict access to our phone number for telemarketers. Since last summer when we subscribed to this Indiana service we have only had a few unsolicited calls from police or fire charities. We used to have several calls 2-5 every night especially at dinner or bed time.

The peace our family enjoys now means a lot to us. We also do not have to pay for caller id any longer, thus saving us $7.50 per month.

Please do NOT pass any national law on telephone solicitation that will weaken my state's ability to restrict companies from calling us. I definitely do not want to see my bank or credit card company or phone company starting to call me again to offer their products!

Thank you for the chance to register my opinion on your efforts. Again let Indiana set the telephone privacy limits for us as we choose. Do not preempt our law which is working by putting something into effect nationally to help other states that are slow in implementing this privacy assistance!

Donald Helmer